

Postdoctoral Fellowship

Sensory Characterisation and Consumer Acceptability of Fermented Foods

An excellent opportunity has arisen for a consumer/sensory scientist with Professor Joanne Hort at Massey University in New Zealand.

Initially for 3 years but with funding to extend to 4.5 years.

This position offers a great opportunity to be central to the development of the Consumer and Sensory Science Centre at Massey University opening with an exciting project looking at sensory properties and consumer acceptance of New Zealand fermented foods.

Please see this link to the job details and please contact j.hort@massey.ac.uk to discuss the position further.